

Update on Accessibility

Though the guidelines have not changed, how the various agencies apply them continues to evolve. We will look at the latest activity with the DOJ as it moves forward in the adoption of the Proposed ADA Guidelines along with a few key differences from our existing Act. Then discover the latest news with TDLR including an introduction to the most current forms and procedures. We will review a recent update of how the Department looks at curb ramps and a practical exercise on fire alarms. A quick-paced discussion every design professional will want to attend.
